Nelson. "The Widow's Might"
Princess. "The Lesson"
Dixie. "Daughter of Destiny"

ANNETTE KELLERMANN has completed the filming of "Queen of the Sea," and the film is now in the hands of the film editor for editing and arrangement.

Although no definite date has been announced for the release of this big marine production, it is understood that it will be offered to exhibitors in the fall when other big productions which the Fox forces are now engaged on will be ready for the public.

The announcement states that "Queen of the Sea" is even bigger in its scope and conception than "A Daughter of the Gods," which Miss Kellermann also made. Besides several stupendous sea efforts, the production is said to have a number of novel features which are unique in marine pictures.

Female Impersonator at Nelson.

At the Nelson theatre today, Julian Eltinge, the famous feminine impersonator, is appearing in his latest Paramount picture, "The Widow's Might," a fascinating photoplay written for him by Marion Fairfax. Dick Tavish, as played by Julian Eltinge, the man who pays more dress-makers' bills for himself than any other in the world, and who wears some stunning new gowns in this picture, is an enterprising young New Yorker. He decides "that is money in cows" and establishes himself on a western ranch.

How he is obliged to disguise himself as a woman in order to entrap the crook who is trying to steal his farm, and how he finally wins out against all odds, makes a thrilling and entirely humorous picture which is well worth the seeing.

The cast that was chosen to support Mr. Eltinge in "The Widow's Might," is especially fine, including many of the players who have appeared in his former pictures, such as pretty Florence Vidor, Maym Kelso and James Neill.

No Change at Princess.

The bill at the Princess is the same today as yesterday, "The Lesson," a drama, with Constance Talmadge.

Dixie Features.

A dramatic romance, "Daughter of Destiny" shown at the Dixie yesterday, is there again today. Madame Petrova is the star also the producer.

Each Bill an Improvement.

The general verdict at the Hipp last night was that the second bill of the week was better than the first which hardly seemed possible. There was more pep in it however, and the song selections were a bit more lively. Jack Fuquay was in Irish character last night, and was clever. Beulah Fuquay and Elsie Ziegler were strong favorites. The costumes of course were really a feature and add an appearance to the show that makes one go away talking about the beauty of it. Bill changes again tomorrow night and the company ends the best week since the re-opening.

"CLOSE-UPS"

Jack Fuquay has definitely decided that he will not go on the road this season with a menagerie. When seen here formerly he was a proud possessor of a pet monkey, and through the able advertising of Old Stager was rapidly adding new members. The untimely death of "Monk," however, so affected Jack that he gave up all the big dreams he had of white tents thronged with thousands who came to see the greatest animal show on earth. Too bad. 'Twas ever thus with dreams. POP.

LEARNED RABBI HERE.

The Rev. Georges Bacarat, professor of languages at the Rabbinical College of America, spent a few hours in this city yesterday the guest of Simon D. Goodman. Dr. Bacarat will lecture tonight at Clarksburg on "Zionism and its Developments."
